Core Services Receives SAS 70 Type II Certification for Sixth Consecutive Year.

Oracle Partner Receives Industry Standard Report Ensuring Controls and Safeguards Are in Place to Protect Customer Data.

Morristown, N.J., November 18th, 2008– Core Services Corporation, an Oracle Certified Partner announced today that, for the sixth consecutive year, it has received a satisfactory report with no exceptions on controls placed in operation and tests of operating effectiveness, as prepared under the guidelines of American Institute of Certified Public Accountants' Statement on Auditing Standards No. 70 (SAS 70). The longer more exhaustive "Type II" report, which is applicable to Core's hosting service business segment, has been issued by the New York-based accounting and consulting firm of Eisner LLP.

"The SAS 70 is a widely used compliance audit for assessing the internal control framework of a service organization like Core Services, which provides critical outsourcing activities for our customers," says Core Services' President and CEO, James Bistis. "Legislation, such as Sarbanes-Oxley (SOX), HIPAA, and growing state, federal, and international privacy laws, requires companies to provide evidence of a strong system of internal controls." Bistis continues, "Our customers will benefit in a number of ways as a result of Core's SAS 70 certification. Most importantly, SAS 70 certification is a verification of the accuracy and integrity of Core's operations and our customers' external auditors will be able to rely on our SAS 70 Service Auditor's Report to assess internal control risk for the purposes of planning and executing their financial audit."

Preparing for SAS 70 requires a structured, precise, step-by-step approach, and requires excellent communication and coordination on all sides of the process. "Our customers trust Core to deliver proven processes, practices, and controls to meet the highest quality and compliance standards." Bistis concludes, "Successfully completing the Type II audit for the 6th consecutive year confirms Core's commitment to excellence, reliability, security, and re-confirms our customer's confidence in us. We will continually strive to improve our processes and ensure that this report has a positive impact for all of our customers"
